

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA

National Health Mission, Assam

HyunJung Kim (Henry Kim) is a current PhD student in Biodefense at George Mason University, whose works primarily focuses on the use of unapproved medical countermeasures in response to public health emergencies as well as the historical study of biological warfare. He holds a Master's in National Security Studies from California State University, San Bernardino, and Bachelor's Degrees in Sociology and Public Administration from Korea University. He additionally served as an intelligence officer in the Republic of Korea (ROK) Army.

